

Lull in War May Speedup Evacuation

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The lull in the Vietnam war spread today as top American military officials met to consider the significance of the slowdown and prospects for more withdrawals of U.S. troops.

Emphasizing the lull, the U.S. Command announced that the number of Americans and enemy killed in combat last week were the lowest since the first week of the year, while the number of South Vietnamese soldiers killed was the lowest in six months.

U.S. headquarters said 148 Americans were killed in action, well below the weekly average for the year of 243. Enemy dead totaled at least 2,051, the command said, and 352 government troops were reported killed.

Americans wounded last week totaled 1,612, slightly above the recent average. This was believed to be the result of a 30 per cent increase in the average daily number of contacts by small American units, but a predicted increase in battle deaths because of this did not materialize.

Military spokesmen reported 15 enemy shelling attacks Wednesday night and today, with 10 of them causing damage or casualties. Two American installations were targets, including the U.S. 9th Infantry Division base at Dong Tam, but there were no American casualties.

In one of the few American ground actions reported, troops from the American Division's 11th Light Infantry Brigade killed six enemy Wednesday in an attack near Quang Nai City, 300 miles northeast of Saigon. U.S. casualties were two wounded.

Armored troops of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division reported killing nine enemy, with no casualties of their own, in a skirmish 35 miles northwest of Saigon. South Vietnamese headquarters reported government troops killed 78 enemy in a series of small fights in the last day and a half, most of them in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, said his first full day of conferences and briefings at U.S. headquarters at Ton Son Nhut Airbase outside Saigon.

Conferring with Wheeler were Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, and Adm. John S. McCain Jr., U.S. commander in the Pacific.

MARGARET WADDLE

Margaret Waddle, senior English major from Emmet, will be one of 86 candidates for degrees at summer commencement exercises Aug. 8 at Southern State College, according to James L. Smyth, registrar.

Commencement exercises will be held in the Greek Theatre and candidates will be recommended by Dr. L.A. Logan, academic dean, with degrees being conferred by President Imon E. Bruce.

Miss Waddle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Waddle of Rt. 1 Emmet and a 1966 graduate of Hope High School, will be a candidate for the Bachelor of Arts degree at Southern State, where she is a member of the Association of Women Students and the Stagecrafters. She has also attended State College of Arkansas.

House Panel Rejects Nixon Voting Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee rejected President Nixon's proposed voting rights bill today and approved a five-year extension of the existing law.

The committee, by what was described as an overwhelming voice vote, urged renewal of the 1965 act, which suspends literacy tests and limits election procedure changes in seven Southern states.

The vote, in which a majority of committee Republicans lined up with the Democrats, signals a party-splitting fight among Republicans when the bill is brought to the House floor.

Nixon asked Congress to scrap the regional approach of the 1965 act and ban literacy tests in all states. He also seeks to ease the restriction against changing election procedures, and ban state voter residency requirements in presidential elections.

Amendments that would have added the general ban on literacy tests and on state residence requirements to the existing law were defeated by the committee.

Guard Backs Riot Police in Ohio

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Riot-equipped police backed by 150 National Guard troops were ordered into a South Side area after sniper fire and fire bombings broke out for a second straight night.

Eight persons were injured and 13 arrested before shotgun- and rifle-carrying police using tear gas restored order early today. The racial violence began in a two-block area and spread over 10 blocks of the racially mixed neighborhood.

Those taken into custody were charged with resisting arrest, curfew violations and suspicious conduct.

Gov. James A. Rhodes, contacted at the White House where he was attending a dinner, ordered the Guardsmen into the area to help police protect cleanup crews.

The trouble began in the same area where disturbances erupted in April 1968.

The injured included one policeman and a fireman hurt by flying glass, another policeman injured by a thrown rock, two men beaten after their cars were set afire, a woman driver hit by a brick, and drug store owner Ralph White Jr., 49, who said he was hit by a brick after stamping out a firebomb at his store.

Authorities said three fires were set.

An 11:55 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew was ordered into effect Wednesday night for the area.

Other incidents had broken out Tuesday night and early Wednesday after 100 young Negroes demonstrated at a dairy store where a black woman had complained that she was kicked by the owner several weeks earlier.

A fire bombing, looting and other incidents took place and five persons were injured slightly.

Assault and battery charges are pending in court against the dairy store owner and the woman who complained of being kicked after being accused of shoplifting.

The astronauts beamed to earth an unscheduled 16½-minute television transmission Wednesday, using the color camera of the command module.

Keeping the camera focused on the Earth, Armstrong, after repeated urging by the ground, gave a brief travelogue.

From 60,000 miles out in space, Armstrong said, the crew could see most of North America and parts of south America.

"We have not been able to visually pick up the Hawaiian island chain, but we can clearly see the western coast of North America, the United States, the San Joaquin Valley, the High Sierra and Mexico," said Armstrong, and then as far south to the northern coast of south America.

"I'm not sure you'll be able to see all that on your screens down there," he said.

The television view showed the earth as a greenish-blue ball streaked with clouds.

"Hey, Houston," Aldrin quipped at one point, "you suppose you could turn the earth a little bit so we could get a little more than just water?"

"Roger, 11," a flight controller deadpanned. "I don't think we've got much control over that. Looks like you'll have to settle for the water."

The unplanned television transmission was requested by Armstrong as a checkout of the TV system. The signal was recorded at the Goldstone, Calif., tracking station and released an hour later from here.

Nat'l Gross Production Still Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Gross National Product (GNP), rose $16.5 billion during the second quarter of the year the Commerce Department said today, and an economist predicted that it would reach $933 billion by the end of the year.

The GNP is the total of all goods and services produced in the country.

The preliminary second quarter GNP figure was at an annual rate of $925.1 billion, compared to $908.7 in the first quarter.

William H. Chartener, the department's chief economist, said the second quarter increase of 1¾ per cent was about the same as the two preceding three-month periods. He said it consisted of an increase of almost 1¼ per cent in prices and a gain of just over one-half of 1 per cent in production.

For the first half of the year Chartener said, the economy showed a real increase of 2½ per cent, compared to a 5 per cent increase in prices.

ASU Head May Lose Bank Post

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Two Arkansas State University trustees asked ASU President Carl R. Reng Wednesday to resign from the board of directors of the Citizens Bank of Jonesboro.

The two said Reng is in a conflict of interest situation since most of ASU's funds are handled by the bank, largest of the three Jonesboro banks.

The request was made by Joe Brooks of Jonesboro and Austin Temple of Crossett, each appointed to the ASU board by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, a Republican.

Reng declined to comment. Brooks and Temple said the Citizens Bank was a "Democratic party" bank and had supported Democrats in the last election.

The ASU board has adopted a rotation system that puts its funds in the care of Citizens Bank for a three-year period, Mercantile Bank for a two-year period and First National Bank for a one-year period.

Brooks and Temple said this wasn't equitable.

3-Way Split in Senate on Surtax

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee voted 9-8 today to approve the House-passed surtax extension bill without change and send it to the Senate floor for debate.

The vote represented a first-round victory for President Nixon in Senate consideration of the bill.

However, it was uncertain as to when the legislation would be called up for Senate debate.

Republicans on the committee had taken the position the group should draft its own version of the measure, with out tax reform rider. But the democratic leaders in the Senate—Mansfield and his assistant, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts—wanted major tax reforms included, even if it took two months to complete the legislation.

Taking the middleground was Committee Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., who committed himself to considering some reform proposals while working to get the bill through Congress by the mid-August recess.

Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware, Senior Republican member of the committee, was leading the effort to get quick action on the tax extension measure the Nixon administration says is vital to slow down inflation.

Cease-Fire for Central America

By CHARLES GREEN
Associated Press Writer
TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Honduras and El Salvador each agreed to a cease-fire in their three-day-old war Wednesday night, but each nation attached conditions, which delayed an end to the fighting.

A peace committee of the Organization of American States had asked the warring Central American neighbors to agree to a peace plan which unofficial sources said called for:

— A return to territorial conditions that existed before the

Thursday, July 17, 1969
fighting broke out with each nation's armed forces pulling back three miles behind its borders.
— Respect for the life and property of citizens of one country living in the other.
— Neutral military observers to see that the cease-fire is observed.
— An end to hostile radio and press propaganda in both countries.
Honduras agreed to the plan on condition that El Salvador withdraw the troops that invaded Honduras. Honduras said it would pull back its forces three miles from the border.
El Salvador also agreed to the plan but on condition that the OAS provide machinery adequate to enforce the agreement. It demanded particularly that more than 275,000 Salvadorans living in Honduras be protected against "persecution."

PERRYTOWN HOMEMAKERS CLUB MEETS

A progress report on the park at Perrytown was heard at the Perrytown Extension Homemakers Club meeting July 10 in the City Hall. Plans were made to put lights in the park, and all the club members agreed to donate a book of trading stamps to buy a barbecue grill. Anyone interested in the park who would like to make a donation of stamps is asked to contact Mrs. Earl Martin, Mrs. D.D. Fairchild or Mrs. Avery McKinney.

Mrs. Martin, the club president, called the meeting to order, and Mrs. Annie Lee Roberts led in singing "In the Garden". "Keep your face always in the sunshine and the shadows will fall behind you" was the Thought of the Month brought by the president.

Mrs. Wayne Moses, who served as hostess, gave the devotion entitled, "Subject: Love," in which love of God, our country, and one another were included. Mrs. Tom Gray concluded with prayer.

For the eye-opener Mrs. Avery McKinney told "how to make crepe paper twine and how to use it to decorate bottles and jars." She also gave the lesson, "Healthy Idea," part of a series planned to increase awareness of legitimate uses of drugs and implications of the misuse of drugs.

Members answered the roll call with "where I have a problem with midew," Mrs. Moses agreed to finish out the year as the eye-opener leader, and all other matters of business pertained to the park.

Mrs. Winemiller, Mrs. Southward, Mrs. Mary Keller and Kathy received gifts from Secret Pals. Mrs. Tammie Daniel won the Surprise Package, and the collect was repeated in union.

The hostess served cookies, nuts, chips, and punch to 9 members and 4 guests, Misses Donna Fairchild, Sherry and Terry Patterson, and little Deborah Ann Thomas.

The next meeting will be at the park August 7 at 7:30 p.m. A family potluck meal with homemade ice cream is planned with recreation also.

An ice cream supper was planned for August 15 at the Shover Springs Hall. Mrs. E.E. Ehler received an anniversary gift from her Secret Pal, Mrs. Mangum directed a game which Mrs. Hewitt won, and Mrs. Polindexter won the door prize.

To close the meeting all repeated the Homemakers Prayer.

Mrs. Perry Henley read a report for the housing leader on "Planning Aids for Closets." The roll call was answered by telling "where I have problem with midew." The secretary performed her duties. The meeting adjourned with reading the Collect. Cold watermelon was served to the five members and four visitors present. The door prize was won by Mrs. M.S. Willis.

NOT COUTH, HE SAYS

Dear Helen: Maybe I'm not into this new talk thing, but I personally would like to hear less of it. I mean using four-letter words just because this is "truth," and swearing because it "frees you up," and referring to your parents as "my old man" or "my old lady" or worse (which you can't print). Is this kind of free speech really necessary? What does it prove? —FOR COUTHNESS

Dear F.C.: This kind of "free speech" proves nothing but bad taste, lack of respect, and an urge to shock. I'm glad you agree with me! —H.

Dear Helen: With all the stuff that's printed about dangerous drugs, you'd think kids would know what they're trying, but I've found out quite a lot of them don't.

They talk about "dropping acid" when they take any kind of pill. They actually think they went on a "trip," when they do a sleepless jag from a pep pill. And sometimes it works the other way. They'll take what they think is a "benne" and it turns out to be much stronger. So they get scared and go hysterical, when they start hallucinating. I've even talked with a few who didn't know that "grass" was the same as "pot." And they brag about smoking "hash" when they are on U.S. marijuana which practically nothing, usually.

I made a study of the drug scene for a college thesis, and I discovered that while young people rap a lot, their actual information is more than half myth and rumor. —ALEX

Dear Alex: How right you are! Some young people are so trusting they'll take any pill offered (usually at 25 or 50 cents each) and others are so native they'll smoke oregano mixed with dried weeds and think they're on a marijuana high. (You'd be surprised how much REAL grass is mixed with the "grass" sold to teen-agers.)

Then, when they get a more potent dose — an acid (LSD) tab, or a handful of "uppers" washed down with wine — they can go out of their tree.

What shakes me is that kids who wouldn't dare take an unprescribed pill from the family medicine shelf will gulp whatever a casual acquaintance hands them. How can anyone be so dumb? —H.

Dear Helen: You asked readers to respond to the question a girl asked, "Does the Service — Army, Navy, Airforce, Marines, Coast Guard — really make a man out of a boy?"

How was the vote? —INTERESTED

Dear Interested: The vote stands two to one in favor of the Service, which should make the Pentagon happy.

Next week I'll print some hot examples — on both sides of the question. —H.

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The television networks, like the astronauts and the space technicians at Cape Kennedy, have the Apollo launches down pat.

Coverage Wednesday went as smoothly as the liftoff of the Apollo 11 for the voyage to the moon.

In essence, it was a dress rehearsal for television's marathon coverage of the landing on the moon.

CBS and NBC will devote 31 hours of continuous coverage and ABC 30 hours to this critical phase of the mission Sunday and Monday.

Amid the superlatives untarried for this flight, NBC's Chet Huntley put his finger on a bothersome fact. "I have the feeling," he said, "that what we need is a new vocabulary. We're using the same words to describe this journey as we did to describe the voyages of Columbus and Magellan."

Eric Sevareki was thinking along similar lines on CBS. "Ours is not a romantic era," he said. "We don't have a language to adequately describe this event. How do you say 'as high as the sky' now?"

Actually, the pictures did quite well.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, seeing his first launch in person, described it as an "awesome sight," and said, "I don't know of anything with a greater potential for peace than the space effort."

He will discuss the space program in an interview with Walter Cronkite during CBS' weekend coverage.

ABC, which is supplying the international pool coverage, estimated that 528 million people in North and South America, Europe, Asia and Australia saw the launch by means of satellite television.

Alaska also received by satellite its first live pictures of a launch.

More people—at least one out of every four persons on earth according to one estimate—will see some phase of the Apollo 11 mission than have witnessed any event in history.

The one-hour transmission of the launch went to a number of Iron Curtain countries, including the Soviet Union. Thirty-three nations in the non-Communist world took the transmission and a number relayed it to other countries without antennae.

Many countries sent correspondents to provide voice commentary with the pool pictures.

The cost of supplying the pool, which also is used by the three American networks, is estimated at $1.5 million.

Besides progress reports, the next Apollo coverage is scheduled for tonight at 7:32-7:47 p.m. EDT.

Namath Is Closer to Joining Jets

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Joe Namath appeared today to be several steps closer to returning to the New York Jets huddle following a secret meeting with his teammates and the revelation that he has been having face-to-face talks with Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Namath stole onto the Hofstra University campus Wednesday night, met for about 45 minutes with veteran members of the Super Bowl champions in the club's dressing room quarters, and told them the entire situation surrounding his retirement might be resolved by the weekend.

Word of Namath's hastily called meeting with his teammates, including tight end Pete Lammons, was brought by Johnny Sample, the defensive captain who has acted as an intermediary between the unpredictable quarterback and the press throughout the week.

"Namath said he's been talking to Rozelle and they hope to have the thing resolved by Friday or Saturday," said Sample in relating what Namath told his teammates. "They've been meeting every day for three or four days."

Immediate confirmation of the face-to-face meetings came from Rozelle, who said: "I will acknowledge that I have had private conversations with him for the last couple of days. Beyond that, I really couldn't say anything more at this time."

Namath, of course, announced his retirement in a tearful news conference June 8 rather than sell his interest in Bachelors III as ordered by Rozelle, who said that the swinging East Side night-spot was being frequented by undesirable characters.

How the question of Bachelors III—the key issue in the entire case—will be resolved still remains a big question since Namath, publicly at least, has refused to budge on selling his half-interest in the restaurant and bar.

However, all indications are that before the case is resolved, Namath will somehow have to relent on this issue.

Still, before his teammates, Namath defended himself and Bachelors III.

"The gist of his whole conversation to us," Sample said, "was that Mr. Rozelle hasn't given any evidence that he (Namath) or the place has done anything wrong. To a man, every man on the team was behind him."

That included Lammons, who walked out of camp Tuesday in apparent sympathy with Namath, contending, "If Namath plays, I'll play."

Jets Coach Weeb Ewbank met with Namath and his attorney, James Walsh, later in the evening and officially granted Na-

Hope Auto Wins, Game Protested

In Little League play Tuesday night, Hope Auto and James Motor Co. began action with Hope Auto winning 9 to 6. However, this game was played under protest from the second inning on and the Little League Board and the Little League Board will determine whether a rematch will be played.

Jim Rhodes put James Motor on the scoreboard with a 2-run homer, his first, in the first inning.

CBC downed Lions 7 to 1. Lions played good ball with their All-Star player, James Robinson, going all the way on the mound. The game was tied 1 to 1 for several innings until errors began bugging the Lions Team.

Barry's battled the Sheriff's team to a 9 to 5 victory in the last game of the evening.

Last Friday night's results were CBC 13 and Sheriff 4. Stagers hit a grand-slam homer for CBC. Barry's beat Hope Auto 8 to 2 with Curtis East hitting his first homer for Barry's. James Motors Beat Lions 6 to 4.

The 1969 Regular Little League season will draw to a close Friday Night, July 18, with Lions playing Barry's in the first game. James Motor will be playing CBC, and Sheriff's will take on Hope Auto.

Poney League play ended its season Monday Night with Anderson-Frazier going undefeated for their 2nd straight Championship.

Citizens' National upset 2nd place Jaycees 5 to 4, Monday Night. Wade Harris hit one over the 336 ft. marker for Jaycees. Anderson-Frazier blasted away at Blevins winning 20 to 0.

Cardinals Take 11 of Last 13

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Slowly, almost surreptitiously, the St. Louis Cardinals are starting to stir.

While the Chicago Cubs and New York Mets have created a diverting commotion at the top of the National League's East Division, the Cards methodically have gone about the business of reversing half a season of mediocrity.

St. Louis had won 11 of the last 13 games including Steve Carlton's 5-0 five-hitter over Philadelphia Wednesday night. Combined with the Mets' 9-5 decision over the first-place Cubs, it left the Cards 9½ games back of the leaders.

That's not an insurmountable bulge with half a season still remaining.

Elsewhere in the National League Wednesday, Pittsburgh rallied to beat Montreal 8-7, Cincinnati bombed Atlanta 10-7, Los Angeles edged Houston 3-2 and San Francisco nipped San Diego 4-3.

In the American League, Boston ripped New York 6-2, Detroit shut out Washington 3-0, Minnesota swept a doubleheader from Chicago 9-8 and 6-3, Cleveland split with Baltimore, winning 6-4 and then losing 6-5, Oakland trimmed Seattle 6-1 and California downed Kansas City 4-2.

With the glare of the pennant race shining brightly on the Cubs and the Mets, the St. Louis surge has gone almost unnoticed. But the Cards have shaved six full games off the Cubs' lead since they started winning two weeks ago.

Lou Brock provided the batting support for Carlton against the Phillies. The fleet outfielder drove in four runs with a homer ad a double.

Carlton, 12-5, struck out 12 and lowered his league-leading earned run average to 1.65.

The Mets, meanwhile, crept within 3½ games of the Cubs, using home runs by Tommie Agee, Al Wels and Art Shamsky to beat Chicago ace Ferguson Jenkins.

It marked the second straight series in which New York had taken 2-out-of-3 from the division leaders. The Mets have won 11 of 14, keeping pace with the hot Cardinals.

Wels, who had hit four homers in eight big league seasons, connected for the second time in as many days against the Cubs after New York had knocked out Jenkins building an early 6-0 lead. Shamsky's two-run shot in the eighth added some breathing room after reliever Cal Koonce had halted a Chicago comeback.

Pittsburgh rallied for three runs in the ninth to beat the hapless Expos. Roberto Clemente's, bases-loaded, two-out single drove in the Pirates' tying and lead runs. Then Richie Hebner singled another run across, giving Pittsburgh a cushion to stand off Adolfo Phillips' homer in the bottom of the ninth. Rusty Staub, Coco Laboy and Bob Bailey also homered for the Expos while Willie Star-gell connected for the Pirates.

Jimmy Stewart, who had hit only one homer all year, jolted a pair in successive innings, driving in five runs to lead Cincinnati past Atlanta. Bobby Tolan also homered for the Reds.

Clete Boyer hit a pair and drove in three runs for the Braves.

Willie Davis, who had hit an inside-the-park homer an inning earlier, tripled home Los Angeles' winning run against Houston as Claude Osteen pitched a five-hitter.

Jimmy Wynn whacked his 22nd homer accounting for the A's' runs, but it was his error on Willie Crawford's liner that allowed the Dodgers' tying run to score and set the stage for Davis' winning hit.

Bobby Bonds hammered a three-run homer and Gaylord Perry scattered 11 hits as San Francisco got past San Diego. Van Kelly had a two-run homer for the Padres.

A glacier moves by sliding, flowing and creeping.

Twins Rock White Sox in Pair

By HERSHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
All right, you Chicago White Sox pitchers, open your primers to the lesson for today. It's on how to hold runners close to their bases. Ready?

See the Twins run. See Rod run. See Harmon run. See Cesar run. See Charlie run. See Frank run. Run, Twins, run.

You couldn't blame Chicago pitchers if they saw Minnesota runners stealing bases in their sleep Wednesday night after the twinkletoe Twins ran and batted their way to a 9-8, 6-3 doubleheader sweep that pushed them five games ahead of Oakland in the American League West.

The chief culprit was Rod Carew, who stole home in the second inning of the opener for the seventh time this season, breaking the AL record of six set by Detroit's Ty Cobb in 1915 and matched by Cleveland's Bobby Roth two years later and equalling the major league mark established by Brooklyn's Pete Reiser in 1946.

Elsewhere, Oakland thumped Seattle 6-1, Baltimore nipped Cleveland 6-5 after losing 6-4, Boston downed the New York Yankees 6-2, Detroit blanked Washington 3-0 and California beat Kansas City 4-2.

In the National League, Los Angeles held off Houston 3-2, Cincinnati outslugged Atlanta 10-7, San Francisco edged San Diego 4-3, the New York Mets whipped the Chicago Cubs 9-5, St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 5-0 and Pittsburgh shaded Montreal 8-7.

The Twins started out by giving the White Sox a dose of power and then switching quickly to finesse. Rich Reese started the fireworks with a three-run homer in the first inning of the opener—and he drove in two later runs with another homer and a single.

Then, in the second, after Chicago scored twice in the top of the inning, Cesar Tovar singled and stole second. Pitcher Tom Hall popped a single to right, sending Tovar to third, and Ted Uhlaender beat out a bunt for a run. Carew forced Uhlaender and Reese struck out but Harmon Killebrew walked and so did Charlie Manuel, forcing in a run and making it 5-2.

Carew then swiped home on the front end of a triple steal, giving him 7-for-7 in that department. The fleet second baseman singled with two out in the eighth, stole second and scored what proved to be the winning run on Reese's single.

Ron Hansen and Carlos May belted solo homers for the Sox, who outhit the Twins 17-11 in the opener and 9-8 in the nightcap, a triple steal.

The Twins ran — pun intended — their winning streak to eight in a row and 17 of 19 in the second game as Uhlaender drove in three runs with as many singles. The lumbering Killebrew stole second in the fifth inning and Tovar and Frank Quilici did it in the seventh.

"We weren't trying to embarrass them," said Minnesota Manager Billy Martin. "We were trying to score runs. The steals turned out to help us win the games."

The night wasn't all perfect, though. Outfielder Tony Oliva, batting .333, came down with the chicken pox and catcher John Roseboro received spike wounds on his right arm and left leg in a play at the plate.

Two-run homers by Dick Green, Rick Monday and Sal Bardo powered Oakland past Seattle and Lew Krause limited the losers to four hits, including Don Mincher's solo homer. The setback stretched the Pilots' losing streak to seven games.

Brooks Robinson singled with two out in the ninth inning to break a tie and win the nightcap for Baltimore after Stan Williams had retired Curt Motton and pinch hitter Frank Robinson with the bases loaded. Motton hit a two-run homer for the Orioles and Tony Horton belted a pair of solo shots for the Indians.

Ken Suarez and Chuck Hinton each drove in a pair of runs as Cleveland took a 6-0 lead in the opener, but Mike Paul had to put down a ninth-inning rally. Frank Robinson hit his 21st homer.

Carl Yastrzemski ripped four hits, including a home run, and George Scott slammed a two-run homer as the Red Sox stopped the Yankees behind Mike Nagy's five-hit pitching.

Detroit's Mickey Lolich and Washington's Dick Bosman were locked in a scoreless battle until Willie Horton doubled in three unearned runs with two out in the eighth inning. Lolich scattered four singles and struck out nine, getting slugging Frank Howard three times.

Andy Messersmith stopped Kansas City on six hits and doubled in a run as the Angels made it three straight and tied their longest 1969 winning streak set during the first week of the season. Los Angeles' Jim Rooker homered for the Royals, his third in two games; Messersmith fanned 10, most by an Angel hurler this year.

U.S. Track Team Meets Russian Best

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Definitely, we have one of the strongest ever U.S. track and field teams," declared Coach Joe Yancey, the New Yorker who'll guide the men of Uncle Sam in their international meet this weekend which hasn't yet excited fans.

Yancey's statement drew little objection and Russian Coach Vladimir Popov assessed his own squad as "balanced."

He explained, "We have not so good sprinters where you have very good sprinters. In the middle and long distance we have strong boys."

In the renewal of the USA-USSR competition this weekend at the Los Angeles Coliseum, the British Commonwealth also has been invited to make it a three-way competition.

Right now it appears to be one of those artistic successes and financial catastrophes.

In past years, the USA-USSR meets have drawn 50,000 or more per day. As of now, the advance ticket sale bogs to about 6,000 per day.

Unfortunately Los Angeles fears its chances of landing the 1967 Olympic Games might be judged by the turnout at this international meet.

The two sessions are 7 p.m. on Friday and 1 p.m. Saturday by at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

The decathlon competitors headed by Olympic champion Bill Toomey go in the morning and they probably can count the house between hurdles.

Yancey hasn't been able to evaluate the Russian strength since the Soviet team includes several newcomers to the international competitive scene.

He knows, however, the Russians have three Olympic gold medal winners—Viktor Sanayev in the triple jump, Janis Lusis in the javelin and Vladimir Golubnichy in the 20-kilometer walk.

Over-all, the U.S. mean's team appears far superior to either the Russians or the British Commonwealth.

Palmer's Ryder Cup Chances Slim

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Time is running out for Arnold Palmer in his quest of a spot on the U.S. Ryder Cup team, but the big belter was a relaxed, joking guy today when he set out in the first round of the $150,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

"I don't know whether I can make it or not," the 39-year-old charger said. "Sure, I'd like to. I want to make the team. There's how many, five, yeah, five tournaments left. That may be enough..." and he let the sentence trail off.

He started digging through his locker and found a notice announcing that fittings for the Ryder Cup uniforms would be held at such and such a time at such and such a place.

"I think that was yesterday," someone said.

Arnie grinned and tossed the paper back in the locker.

"That's me and the Ryder Cup—a day late," he said.

Palmer has been a member of every team since 1961 and captained the squad in the biennial competition with a team of British professionals in 1963.

But he hasn't won a tournament in more than a year, ranks 15th in the competition for the 12-man squad and faces a very stiff test if he is to make the team for the fifth time.

Points are awarded through the PGA Championship Aug. 14-17. They are won on the basis of standings in the various tournaments with 70 for first place on a sliding scale down through 10th place.

Frank Beard now leads with 322.85 points, followed in order by Lee Trevino, Billy Casper, Jack Nicklaus and Gene Littler.

The 12th spot, the last place on the team, is held by Ray

Floyd with 170.68 points. He is followed by Ken Still, 167.20; Julius Boros, 160.65, and Palmer, 146.74.

That means Palmer must make up 24 points and climb over three people, no small feat in five weeks.

He missed a golden opportunity to pick up points the last two weeks when most of the top names in the game pulled away from the American tour to compete in the British Open. But Palmer took some time off at the same time.

3 More Put on All-Star American

BOSTON (AP) — Three members of the East Division leading Baltimore Orioles and the Minnesota Twins, the West Coast pace-setters, are among the reserves named to complete the American League All-Star team.

Third baseman Brooks Robinson, second baseman Dave Johnson and outfielder Paul Blair were the Orioles' reserves selected Wednesday by Mayo Smith of the Detroit Tigers, who will manage the AL team against the National League Tuesday night in Washington.

First baseman Harmon Killebrew, outfielder Tony Oliva and catcher John Roseboro were the Twins' players picked as subs and announced through the league office here.

Shortstop Jim Fregosi of the California Angels was the other infield reserve named. Ellie Rodriguez of the Kansas City Royals was chosen as the other spare catcher.

Reggie Smith and Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox, Carlos May of the Chicago White Sox and Mice Hegan of the Seattle Pilots complete the outfield alternates.

The starting team, chosen by vote of the players and announced earlier, consists of Bill Freehan, Detroit; Boog Powell, Baltimore; 1b; Rod Carew, Minnesota; 2b; Sal Bando, Oakland; 3b; Rico Petrocelli, Boston; ss; and Reggie Jackson, Oakland, Frank Robinson, Baltimore and Frank Howard, Washington, of.

The eight pitchers, picked by Smith and also announced previously, are Denny McLain and Mickey Lolich from his own Detroit staff; unbeaten Dave McNally of Baltimore; Ray Culp, Boston; Mel Stottlemyre, New York; Sam McDowell, Cleveland; John "Blue Moon" Odom, Oakland; and Darold Knowles, Washington.

Manager Smith followed the voting in his selections of Roseboro, Killebrew, Robinson, Blair, Oliva, Yastrzemski and Smith, but deviated from it in

To Permit State to Be Sued

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The immunity Arkansas enjoys from damage suits would be ended under a provision adopted Wednesday by the state Constitutional Convention.

Liability to such suits would be limited, however, to the amount and type of coverage established by the General Assembly, according to the provision.

The measure was approved 40-34. It also would apply to cities, school districts and other subdivisions of government.

On a vote of 44-28, the convention also approved a proposal that would abolish the immunity of charitable institutions, including hospitals and churches. They would not enjoy limitations the legislature could set for the state's liability to damage suits.

Sovereign liability without limitations was rejected by the delegates.

The convention also:

- Approved an amended proposal to authorize the legislature to set procedures for abolition, consolidation or merger of counties.
- Refused by 31-26 vote to include a provision against bribery in any new constitution.
- Defeated 47-23 a proposal to create an eight-member commission with authority to submit two constitutional amendments to each general election.
- Defeated on a vote of 48-31 a proposal to prohibit persons the other cases—partly due to the rule making it mandatory to pick at least one player from each team.

convicted of a felony from seeking state elective office.

— Approved 71-8 a proposal to authorize the legislature to transfer powers of the board of any institution of higher learning in the state.

In the debate on limited damage liability for the state, delegate Richard Arnold of Texarkana said, "If a loss occurs to a person by the act of the state, that person must bear the burden (under the doctrine of sovereign immunity). It is fundamentally contrary to the ideas of our republic. The government is not above the law."

Arnold said that if businesses can insure themselves against such risks, cities and towns can do likewise.

The state Supreme Court has ruled that a person whose vehicle was struck by a city-owned garbage truck being used in city business may sue the city for damages.

Following that ruling, the General Assembly this year approved an act granting immunity to political subdivisions of the state, with the provision that they carry liability insurance on their motor vehicles.

In light of that act, delegate Randolph Warner of Fort Smith said, "What we are being asked to do is legislate, to reverse action taken by the General Assembly as late as three months ago."

Delegate John Elrod of Rison said, "It is a question of an individual who is flattened by the state of Arkansas being more able to pay than the state. It is a moral issue when we say we are not willing to pay the cost of insurance premiums."

The proposal authorizing procedures for changing or combining counties also would permit consolidation of judicial districts if such an action were approved by a majority of the voters in each district.

The measure to transfer powers of higher education boards would pave the way for a statewide board of higher education.

Wage Price Controls Out Says Nixon

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, moving to stamp out speculation fed by his own treasury secretary, has all but ruled out wage-price controls as a weapon against inflation.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, after conferring with Nixon, said Wednesday "The administration has ruled out wage and price controls as a way of dealing with inflation under conditions that are now foreseeable."

Let anyone conclude that the "foreseeable" reference was intended to be a loophole, Ziegler added:

"Looking into the future with the knowledge and experience that this administration has, and projecting the various alternatives that could be used in the future, wage and price controls would not be considered."

Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy has on several occasions made statements resulting in speculation the President might put a ceiling on wages and prices, something not tried since the Korean war.

Kennedy always indicated he did not favor such controls, but refused to state flatly they wouldn't be imposed, particularly if Congress refused to extend the income surtax, considered essential by the administration in fighting the wage-price spiral.

Kennedy's latest statement on the matter, along with the sequencing of the White House pronouncements on the matter indicated the confusion over the issue.

Ziegler at a morning news briefing made the first reference to presidential opposition to mandatory wage-price restraints. This was followed by a Kennedy news conference about 1 p.m., when the spectre of controls was again raised. This in turn was followed by the strong statement issued about 3:30 p.m. by the White House at a regular afternoon press briefing.

Kennedy told newsmen regarding wage-price controls, "I close no doors on any kind of possibility." He emphasized, however, he considered it an academic matter being discussed only as a possibility if all other anti-inflationary moves failed.

In spite of all the disclaimers over the word "foreseeable" being a loophole, the White House state did leave open the possibility, however unlikely, the administration's knowledge and experience might be altered with the passage of time and that controls conceivably could be revived as an option in dire circumstances.

The President is trying to combat rising living costs principally through attempts to cut government spending high interest rate to discourage unnecessary borrowing, and continuation of the income tax surcharge to sop up $10 billion a year of potential buying power.

N. Vietnam Against Election

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam brushed off appeals from South Vietnam and the United States today and repeated its rejection of President Nguyen Van Thieu's proposal for the Viet Cong to compete with his regime in internationally supervised elections.

North Vietnamese delegate Xuan Thuy told the 26th session of the Vietnam peace talks that Thieu's proposal "war proposal would lead to elections under the bayonets of American troops organized and controlled by the puppet administration which could only create a new puppet regime paid for by the United States."

South Vietnamese delegate Pham Dang Lam formally submitted Thieu's plan to the conference and called on the Hanoi and Viet Cong delegations to reconsider their "premature" rejection expressed in public statements earlier this week.

U.S. negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge also asked the two delegations to take a second look at Thieu's plan.

But Thuy repeated Hanoi's contention that "as long as American troops occupy South Vietnam, its population cannot have truly free or democratic elections without foreign interference."

Hippies Banned From Mexico

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Immigration officials in Nuevo Laredo announced Wednesday that hippies will be refused tourist cards to enter Mexico unless they take a bath and get haircuts.

Gilberto Casarez chief of Mexican immigration in Nuevo Laredo, said authorities in Mexico City, Acapulco and other popular tourist spots have registered complaints about "dirty, long-haired hippies using peyote, marijuana and other drugs."

He said all long-haired Americans will be told to return to the United States, take a bath and get a haircut before he issues a six-month tourist card to them.

REPHAN'S

This Crew Not Much on Talking

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — the Apollo 11 astronauts, never known as sparkling conversationalists, have turned out to be downright taciturn in space.

In the first 11 hours of their momentous voyage to the surface of the moon, before bedding down for the night, they spoke only sparingly to earth, and then mostly of business.

"Hey, Houston," called down Air Force Col. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. in one of Wednesday's few unbusinesslike exchanges. "You suppose you could turn the earth a little bit so we could get a little more than just water?"

"Roger, 11," mission control responded. "I don't think we've

HOPE NEWSPAPER HISTORY:
The 1929 consolidation joined the two principal newspaper lines dating back to within five years of Hope's incorporation in 1875.

1899 — Star of Hope founded as a weekly by Claude Mc-Corkle; converted to an evening daily by his son, Ed. McCorkle, publishing until the 1929 consolidation.

The opposition line:
1880 — Hope News founded by Lowry Brothers.

1883 — Sold to Withers & Johnson, name changed to Hope Telegraph.

1883 — Later in same year resold to Claude McCorkle and renamed Hope Mercury.

1884 — Sold to James H. Betts, who named it Hope Gazette, under which name it was published continuously until 1922, published by Betts, J.L. Tullis, and Col. W.W.
Folsom the last-named dying in 1916.

1916 — Purkins & Gates bought the weekly Gazette and made it a companion paper to their new daily, Arkansas Evening Herald
—but both papers suspended in 1922.

1926 — Plant was revived by Curtis Cannon as the weekly Hempstead County Review.

1927 — Cannon sold plant to D.A. Gean, who established the morning Hope Daily Press.

1929 — C. E. Palmer and A.H.
Washburn consolidated The Star and the Press as Hope Star, with Palmer as president and Washburn secretary-treasurer.

1957 — Following Mr. Palmer's death Mrs. Palmer became president.

1969 — With Mrs. Palmer's retirement from Star Publishing Co. Washburn became 76 per cent owner and president —balance 24 per cent being held by Texarkana Newspapers, Inc.

Opening lead—♠ 8

A letter from Florida reads in part: "My partner opened the eight of spades against the six-heart contract. I covered dummy's 10 with my queen as a rather hopeless false card. South won the trick with the ace, drew trumps and led the nine of spades through me. I covered with the jack, whereupon he won that trick with the king. He noted that my partner's seven had dropped.
"South went back to dummy, led another spade and finished the four against my five. He discarded dummy's queen of diamonds on the six of spades and wound up with an overtrick. What do you think of my partner's opening lead?"

Our answer is that it was most unfortunate. It handed South the slam and overtrick on a silver platter.
South might still have handled the spade suit that same way without the spade opening but we doubt it. We must conclude that the spade lead cost East and West over 1,500 points.

It is our considered opinion that it was a bad lead. The bidding again in the box is as given by our correspondent and West should have realized that South's spade bid was really showing spades and not designed to stop a spade lead. Furthermore, West had a fairly natural trump lead. He really couldn't be hurting his partner and for all he knew any other lead might.

Q—What causes a person to see double? When I watch television I see two pictures instead of one.

A—Double vision in one eye may be due to a dislocation of the crystalline lens, corneal irregularities or partial retinal detachment. With both eyes open, double vision normally occurs if you hold a finger close to your eyes and look into the distance, and abnormally when one of the muscles that controls the movements of the eyeballs is paralyzed. If it occurs only when you watch TV, your antenna may need adjusting.

Q—Is nearsightedness inherited?

A—Nearsightedness may be hereditary or acquired through excessive use of your eyes for close work with poor illumination.

Q—Would reading while lying down or in a moving vehicle harm one's eyes? If so, how?

A—Reading while lying on your back or in a moving vehicle will probably do no permanent damage but will cause ocular fatigue and should not be done for prolonged periods.

Q—If the eyes are failing,
would it help to have my glasses changed?

A—Since there are several causes for failing vision, you should have a complete eye examination, including ocular tension. A need for new glasses is only one of the possible causes.

Monopoly Is Charged to Drug Makers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, trying to lower spiraling drug prices through vigorous antitrust enforcement, has charged seven major drug firms with using a fraudulent patent to monopolize sales of a leading antibiotic.
The government, in a three-count civil suit, also demanded at least 25 million in damages —probably much more— from two of the companies, Charles

The action marked the second time in a week Justice Department antitrust enforcers moved against drug patents in a concert drive for more competition in the industry.

In Tuesday's suit, filed in federal court here, Pfizer was accused of obtaining a fraudulent patent in 1955 on the drug tetracycline, the nation's largest selling broad spectrum antibiotic.

Broad spectrum antibiotics are popularly known as "wonder

The department claimed Pfizer got the tetracycline patent by withholding information and making "false and misleading office.

In doing so, the suit alleged,
Pfizer gained support from Cyanamid,

Franco May Revive Throne for Spain

By KENNETH L. DAVIS
Associated Press Writer
MADRID (AP) — Gen. Francisco Franco is expected to name Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon as his heir next Tuesday, setting the stage for a father-son struggle for the Spanish throne.

The 76-year-old chief of state announced Wednesday night that he was calling an extraordinary session July 22 of the Cortes, the Spanish parliament, "in relation to Article 6 of the Law of Succession of the chief of state."

Article 6 gives Franco the right to propose his successor—and to rescind the proposal at any time. He is expected to ask the Cortes to approve his nomination of the 31-year-old prince to become king and chief of state upon Franco's death.

Immediate approval of whatever Franco proposes is expected from the parliament.

For 21 years the Franco government has groomed Juan Carlos to be king—since the prince's father, the Count of Barcelona, agreed to allow his son to be educated in Spain.

But Don Juan never relinquished his claim to the throne last occupied by his father, Alfonso XIII, who fled Spain in 1931 under pressure from the republicans and died in exile.

A source close to Don Juan, the 56-year-old dynastic head of his branch of the Borbon family, said recently that the father planned to fly to Madrid from his home in Estoril, Portugal, "within an hour" of Franco's death to make a personal bid for the crown.

Many Spanish experts see the expected nomination of Juan Carlos as a way of avoiding a politically perilous situation in the hours after Franco's death, but it may only set the stage for a family fight.

The selection of either man also is expected to raise an outcry from the Carlists, who support the claim to the throne of Carlos Hugo de Borbon y Parma, the pretender from a rival branch of the Borbon family.

The new king will have only limited powers and can choose a premier only from among nominees of the Council of the Realm. The council has 16 members, 10 of them elected by the Cortes.

Sniffers Get a Real Bang

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Testor Corp., a leading manufacturer of quick drying plastic glue for hobbyists, has added mustard oil to its product to make it obnoxious to sniffers.

The oil, the company says, wallops the nasal area with the impact of a mouthful of mustard or horseradish.

Charles D. Miller, president of the Rockford, Ill., corporation, told a news conference here Wednesday the company had worked for several years to find a way to make sniffing disagreeable. Testor will provide other companies its research information without charge or royalty.

The cost of the oil is insignificant, he said.

To Wind Up One G.&F. Hearing

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Testimony was expected to end in one ouster case and begin in another today in Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's attempt to remove two members of the state Game and Fish Commission.

The defense rested its case Wednesday in the hearing for Newt Hailey of Rogers.

H. W. McMillan, acting as prosecutor for Rockefeller, rested his case against Hailey on Wednesday too, but then obtained permission to rebut some defense testimony.

The rebuttal is scheduled for this morning.

Testimony also is expected to begin today in the case of Raymond Farris of Biscoe, who has been charged by Rockefeller with 10 counts of misconduct in office. Besides lodging the charges and naming McMillan, Rockefeller also named the panel which rules on motions in the hearing, will be the judge of the evidence collected, and will announce whether he finds Hailey and Farris guilty of the charges he lodged against them.

L. Gene Worsham, Hailey's attorney, has criticized the arrangement, saying it makes Rockefeller prosecutor, judge and jury.

Rockefeller's hearing panel agreed Wednesday to recommend that one of the four counts against Hailey be dropped.

This count was that Hailey's tractor agency had wrongfully sold parts to the commission while Hailey was a commission member. McMillan had stipulated Tuesday that the price paid for the parts was fair. Worsham said Hailey's agency was the only one within 90 miles that could supply the parts in question.

The other three counts were that Hailey used commission equipment for a pheasant hunt in South Dakota in October 1963, an elk hunt in Colorado in October 1965, and on a personal visit to El Paso, Tex., in May 1966.

Worsham argued that Hailey was on legitimate business of the commission on the three trips. Paul G. Snow of Little Rock testified that the El Paso trip resulted in speeches by Hailey in Jaurez, Mexico, across the border from El Paso, about hunting and lakes in Arkansas.

Snow said he didn't know whether Hailey was in Juarez on official business. Commission Director Hugh Hackler had testified earlier that so far as he knew the trip was not on commission business.

Hackler said, however, that the Colorado trip was on official business for the commission.

Sam Holt of Mammoth Spring, former commission chairman, testified that the South Dakota trip was made at the invitation of South Dakota officials and that commission personnel wanted to see if Arkansas habitat and weather were suitable for breeding pheasants.

"We were going to learn something and then we were going for some of our own pleasure, too," Holt said.

Wayne Hampton of Stuttgart, a former commission member, testified that it was common for commissioners to make out-of-state trips on commission business.

On one such trip, Hampton recalled, he did some fishing in Canada and told reporters about it when he returned. He said he didn't think he was guilty of any wrongdoing.

Holiday on Moon Landing Suggested

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Several governors and mayors have already honored President Nixon's request that they declare a holiday Monday to celebrate man's first landing on the moon.
 "If the President suggests it, we ought to go along with him since this would be one of America's greatest moments," said South Carolina Gov. Robert E. McNair as he announced an official holiday for state employees.
 Nixon signed a proclamation declaring Monday a national day of participation hours after he watched the television broadcast of the Apollo 11 liftoff Wednesday.
 His action gave the day off to all federal employees except those in national security and public service areas.
 The President urged governors, mayors, school officials and private employers to take similar action "so that as many of our citizens as possible will be able to share in the significant events of that day."
 He also called upon "all of our people on that historic day to join in prayer for the successful conclusion of Apollo 11's mission and the safe return of its crew."
 The governors of the nation's two most populous states—Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Ronald Reagan of California—were among the first to heed the President's holiday request.
 Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox also granted state employees the day off and added: "I would hope that the President, the governors and all the people of this nation will kneel at the cross on the morning when the men land on the moon."
 Other states where a holiday was declared included Oregon, Florida, Maryland, Idaho and New Mexico. The office of Gov. Dan Evans of Washington said he would follow suit today.
 An exception was North Carolina where Gov. Bob Scott said Monday would be a regular working day for state employees.
 Mayor John V. Lindsay ordered most New York City municipal offices closed Monday. Plans called for big television screens to be installed in Central Park to allow onlookers to view the climactic moon landing early Monday.

 Detroit's Mayor Jerome Cavanagh declared Monday a city holiday. In Philadelphia, municipal offices will remain open but will be manned by skeleton staffs.
 The Houston City Council voted to give city employees the day off. "Everyone will be up watching it until three or four in the morning, and no one will be working much on Monday anyway," observed Councilman Homer Ford.
 Bloomington, Ind.'s mayor, John Hooker, said, "We'll be happy to do what the President suggested." But city employees in Omaha and Minneapolis will be at their posts as usual.
 Most private employers said they had not decided on giving a holiday. Some, including the Boeing Co. that built a booster rocket for the Apollo shot, said it would be business as usual Monday.
 "As major participants in the Apollo 11 program, our enthusiasm for this achievement is great," said a Boeing announcement. "However, our other commitments are so pressing that it is essential that we remain on the job."
 A spokesman at Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s Sunnyvale, Calif. plant said "We have no plans at this time to declare a holiday. We have a regular holiday schedule under the union contract and are bound to that."
 The New York and American Stock Exchanges said their boards of governors would meet after trading ended today to consider a Monday closing.

Papyrus Raft Is Abandoned Temporarily

OSLO (AP) — Thor Heyerdahl and his six crewmen have left their little papyrus boat Ra temporarily because of storm damage to their craft, a Norwegian amateur radio operator reported today.
 But Heyerdahl, now aboard the fishing vessel Shenandoah in the Atlantic, said in a radio report that he would wait for better weather, then determine if he and his men can repair the damage.
 He said he still planned to continue his voyage to Barbados aboard the Ra if the lives of his men would not be endangered.
 The Shenandoah reached the Ra Wednesday and began taking aboard film and other equipment from the damaged, partially waterlogged little boat.
 The Norwegian explorer, who made his name with his pioneering raft voyage across the Pacific, sailed from Morocco May 26 in a replica of the papyrus boats sailed by the ancient Egyptians. He hoped to sail it across the Atlantic to Latin America to demonstrate his theory that the Egyptians could have made the same voyage more than 4,000 years ago.
 For weeks the Ra made good progress, but on Sunday it was damaged by a tropical storm which broke the yardarm and steering oar, robbing Heyerdahl of his sail power and much of his steering control.

Sailors' Snack: Cereal Boats

Puffed rice candy makes appealing placecards and favors for a child's party. Shape the chewy, tasty cereal candy into tiny boats, then add wood masts and paper sails. The puffed rice candy can be tinted with any desired food coloring to fit the party theme or a youngster's whim. Fill the boats with candy and nuts and you're set for smooth sailing on the summer party course. And when the "cargo" is gone, the boats are delicious snacks, too.

SAILOUT PLACECARDS Makes 8 placecards

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| 6 cups puffed rice | 1/2 teaspoon food coloring |
| 3 tablespoons butter or margarine | 8 wooden ice cream sticks or skewers |
| 4 cups miniature marshmallows | 8 paper "sails" |
| 1 teaspoon vanilla | |

Heat puffed rice in shallow baking pan in preheated moderate oven (350°F.) about 10 minutes. Pour into greased large bowl. Melt butter and marshmallows in top of double boiler over boiling water, stirring occasionally until smooth. Stir in vanilla and food coloring. Pour over puffed rice, stirring until evenly coated.

With greased hands, quickly shape mixture to form eight 4-1/2-inch long sailboats, using about 1 cup mixture for each. Make an oblong cavity down the center of each boat, by building up sides and ends. Firmly pack the bottom of each cavity. Insert a stick into the end of each boat for a "mast." Print name on each paper "sail," glue a "sail" to each "mast." Let boats stand at least 30 minutes or until set. Fill with candy and nuts.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to each and every one during the illness and death of my wife, mother and daughter. We especially want to thank the Herndon Funeral Home, the Florist, for the beautiful floral service Bro. Vinson and Bro. Miller for their kind words and prayers. Thanks to the neighbors, relatives and friends for the beautiful flowers, cards and food.
 May God Bless each and everyone of you.

Gloria's Great Marshmallow Log

Teen triumph—a goober goodie.

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Local events to highlight a region's contribution to good eating turn up some fine recipes. Teen-ager

Gloria Gurley of Sale City, Ga., whipped up a peanut marshmallow log for a Peanut Progress Day in Tifton, Ga. and won special honors. Knowledgeable goober eaters in this peanut-growing area are working to top her entry at the next annual event.

Meanwhile, munch away on Gloria's "log."

GLORIA'S PEANUT MARSHMALLOW LOG
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 10-oz. package marshmallows
1 cup confectioners' sugar
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 1/2 cups chopped Spanish peanuts
1/2 14-oz. package caramels
1 tablespoon water

Melt 1 tablespoon butter. Add marshmallows and stir until melted. Beat in enough confectioners' sugar to make mixture of kneading consistency. Add vanilla and 1/2-cup peanuts. Knead further with more confectioners' sugar and shape mixture into 12-inch-long thin roll. Place remaining peanuts on wax paper in rectangle 12x4 inches. Combine caramels with remaining butter and water. When melted, pour caramel over peanuts evenly in a thin stream, spreading the caramel mixture with a knife dipped in hot water. When caramel peanut layer is cool, place marshmallow roll in center. Using wax paper, lift caramel around marshmallow center and seal edges, pressing peanuts in carefully. Place in refrigerator to harden, then slice. Wrap pieces individually and store in an air-tight container. Makes 24 1 1/2-inch slices.

How Does an Astronaut's Wife Feel?

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Nothing ever prepared a wife for a time such as this.

Not Jan Armstrong, who understood that "Neil wanted to devote his life to what he's doing now."

Not Joan Aldrin, who learned on the amateur stage to lose her own identity.

Not Pat Collins, when she promised, like women the world over, "to have and to hold from this day forward..."

They have lived with it for years, this fantasy that one day man will go to the moon. This was the day. The men were their men.

Astronaut homes cluster around the Lakeland area near the space center. In those homes, half a hundred wives know what Jan and Joan and Pat are going through.

But not quite like the wives of the Apollo 11 crew. Nothing ever prepared a wife for a time such as this.

"I feel fine about it," said Mrs. Collins on the day before. "Everything seems to be going just fine."

They always say such things to newsmen on the day before. But the lights and the television sets go on early in the space-made communities of Nassau Bay and Seabrook and Clear Lake and El Lago.

And as an electronic clock 1,040 miles away at Cape Kennedy, Fla., strangely counts backward to zero, there suddenly are no kids on the street and no housewives going for the paper or a street chat, and newsmen wait outside three homes to hear what the wives have to say when the clock starts going forward and everything is well.

Jan and Joan and Pat all have gone through it before. But nothing ever prepared a wife for a time such as this.

"Gemini was the end of something," said Joan Aldrin, whose "Buzz" was on the last flight of that series and left his spacecraft for 5 1/2 hours, establishing a record. "This flight," she added, "is the beginning."

And, if having her man waiting to go to the moon wasn't enough, Joan Collins had to worry last night about a tree in their front yard that was toppled by a storm. It was all right, though. Nobody was hurt.

Wives being wives and today being an important occasion, Pat and Joan went Tuesday to have their hair done. Jan Armstrong, whose husband is to be the first man on the moon, was the only wife who went to Cape Kennedy to see her man off. No comment, she said through a space agency spokesman.

Mrs. Armstrong took 12-year-old Eric and 6-year-old Mark along.

Joan Aldrin commented that their sons, 13-year-old Michael and 11-year-old Andrew, and daughter Janice, who will be 12 next month, are becoming aware of the meaning of this flight.

Nothing ever prepared a wife for a time such as this.

Each Faction on ABM Seeks Advantage

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Forces on both sides of the Safeguard missile defense controversy hope any material unveiled in a secret session of the Senate will bolster their cases as the debate moves slowly towards the voting stage.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., a Safeguard foe, had indicated he would introduce at today's closed session material compiled by an aide who recently visited the Pacific Island of Kwajalein, where Safeguard components are being tested.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., a Safeguard backer and chairman of the Armed Services Committee, planned to discuss top-secret intelligence information on what he considers a seriously increasing Soviet threat.

The secret session is the fourth in recent years.

Similar sessions on Defense Department funds were held in 1963 and last October, while a 1966 closed-door debate centered on efforts to set up a special committee on intelligence operations.

The rules for today's closed session permitted only senators in the chamber. All staff members, including those of the Armed Services Committee, were ruled out in an effort to prevent leaks.

Senators said they hoped that one session of four or five hours would conclude the secret debate, and that regular, open sessions can resume Friday.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said earlier in the week he hopes voting on the $750.1 million Safeguard portion of the $20 billion military procurement authorization bill begins next week.

Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., are expected to make the first move by calling up their amendment to limit the Safeguard program to research and to bar any deployment or site acquisition.

Waiting in the wings is Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., author of a rival amendment to bar deployment of Safeguard's missiles but permit installation of computers and radars for further testing at the two initial Safeguard sites in Montana and North Dakota.

At the moment, the Hart-Cooper supporters oppose McIntyre's amendment, and the New Hampshire Democrat is against the Hart-Cooper proposal.

Safeguard critics indicated Wednesday at a hearing of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee they are divided on the question of a U.S. halt in tests of MIRVs—multiple independent-targeted re-entry vehicles.

Argue Earth Problems Come Next

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's two leading Democrats say any U.S. effort to put a man on Mars by the end of the century should take a back seat to a national commitment aimed at meeting the earthly needs of this world.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and his assistant, Edward M. Kennedy, reacted vigorously Wednesday following the suggestion by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew that the next major U.S. space goal be Mars.

Both senators said the nation should make its top priority solving earthly problems—hunger, housing, poverty and education—before undertaking more costly space ventures.

"The needs of the people on earth, and especially in this country, should have priority," Mansfield said.

"We have important and de-

Mass., chief sponsor of a resolution seeking a U.S. initiative in halting MIRV tests, said he is not advocating a unilateral course but one which both the United States and the Soviet Union can follow.

Symington said he would not support a resolution seeking a unilateral halt in MIRV testing, noting one reason he opposes the Safeguard "is because of my faith that more can be accomplished from a security standpoint" through U.S. development of multiple warhead weapons.

manding needs here on earth that demand early attention," said Kennedy, who suggested that after reaching the moon the space program "ought to be fitted into our other national priorities in an orderly manner."

Significance was given to Agnew's statement, made at Cape Kennedy, Fla., following the launch of the Apollo 11 moon ship, because he heads a presidential committee on re-evaluating the nation's long-space range space goals.

Mansfield and Kennedy, the latter considered a potential 1972 Democratic presidential candidate, speak for a group of liberals already working to cut military spending in favor of increased funds for domestic projects.

The Senate Space Committee, heavily weighted with Pentagon supporters, has approved a $3.715 billion space program—exactly the amount the Nixon administration proposed—for the current fiscal year. It cut $250 million from the authorization previously approved by the House.

This figure does not include, however, $2.21 billion allocated to the Defense Department, $102 million to the Atomic Energy Commission and smaller amount to other agencies, bringing the overall space program to $5.88 billion for the year.

This figure is likely to come under heavy attack from the senators who question the value of further major manned probes into space after scheduled additional moon explorations over the next two years.

However, the Mansfield-Kennedy position wasn't entirely accepted by other Democrats. Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the House Democratic whip, said it "would be like telling the Wright brothers to stop after they flew a couple of hundred feet," to go slow now on the space program.

The Space Committee mentioned only a "low-cost mission to the planet Mercury in 1973" as a likely future project.

It joined the House in boosting the requested $36.5 million to $50 million funds for development of nuclear rockets "to provide advanced space propulsion capability for future national needs."

Depending on the successes of the Apollo 11 mission, the Senate committee said subsequent visits to the moon will be made at the rate of about three a year.

The committee approved $9 million for continuing work on an orbiting space station where men could live and work for extended periods. It also voted to supply funds for unmanned missions to Mars, Venus, Mercury and Jupiter.

The committee said intense scientific investigation of Mars by orbiting craft will begin in 1971.

But nowhere did it indicate there is any current decision to try for a Mars landing.

Catch Up on New Sewing Books

By JOANNE SCHREIBER

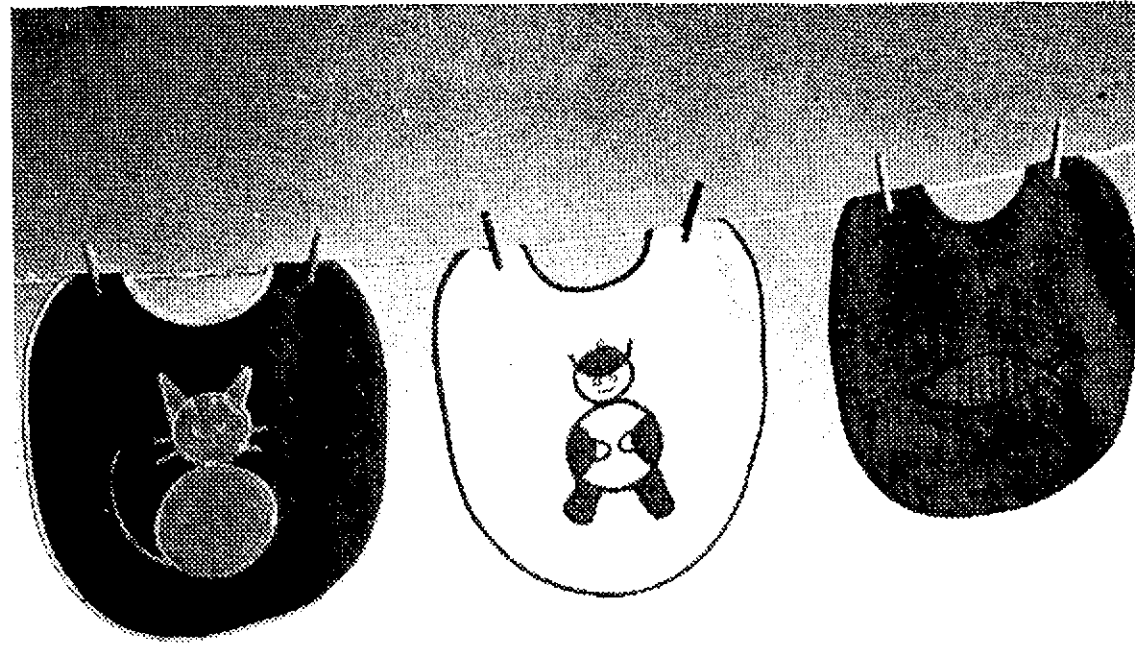

Has your sewing machine slowed down for the summer? No matter how much we enjoy our stitchin' time, there comes a lazy summer slump when the last sundress is finished, when fall and back-to-school are still far off, when the garden and the beach lure us outside. This is the time to catch up with the new sewing books, to plan new sewing strategies, to try new sewing techniques.

Most impressive of the new books is the Singer Sewing Book. It's a hefty one—over 400 pages—but it covers sewing from applique to zippers, from adjusting patterns to zigzag stitching.

Hundreds of colorful illustrations guide you through the intricacies of dressmaking, from the preliminaries of pattern selection and fitting through seams, linings, fastenings and finishes. The section on sewing for children includes measurement charts for boys and girls, a section on sewing for babies, and a discussion on teaching little girls to sew. Home-makers will cheer the mending section with its many sensible instructions for patching, darning and reinforcing.

If you've been limiting your zigzag stitching to construction techniques, the zigzag chapter will lure you into more decorative work. If you're confused by all the new fabrics, you'll learn how to handle them in a special chapter covering knits, laminated, stretch and bonded fabrics, leather, lace and fiberglass. The tailoring section illustrates details of suit and coat construction.

A well-illustrated home

A zigzag machine is invaluable when it comes to making applique designs for children's wear. Here are simple designs on terry bibs, from the new Singer Sewing Book. Make a set for an extra-special baby present.

furnishings section gives instructions for making various kinds of curtains and draperies, simple slipcovers, bedspreads and dust ruffles.

The book was written by Gladys Cunningham, Singer's assistant education director, and supervised by Jessie Hutton, director of sewing education. Many talented writers, illustrators, photographers and seamstresses also contributed. There are pages of color photographs showing decorative details, applique, beading, motifs for children's clothing, monogramming, and room settings.

Also new this season is a homemaker special: the "1,001 Decorating Ideas Homemaker's Handbook." I had the great pleasure of working with the editors of 1,001 Decorating Ideas magazine on this hard cover book.

and it is designed for the woman who enjoys sewing for her home, decorating it and maintaining it.

An opening decorating section gives advice on selecting the ingredients of a home. The sewing section—by far the longest and most detailed part of the book—covers just about everything that can be sewed for the home, from cat curtains to convertible-sofa slipcovers. A special section on window hardware gives information on choosing and installing the various books, rods, brackets and pulleys which support the curtain, drape or shade. A handywoman section tells how to paint, wallpaper, lay tiles and care for the fabric furnishings which you have stitched. A final reference section includes yardage charts, a lighting guide, glossary and room arrangement kit.

There are lots of color pages, plenty of how-to sketches, and delightful silhouettes by Hilary Knight. It is sold mostly in fabric stores and department stores.

A wonderful gift book for an expectant mother is "Making Baby Clothes," by Barbara Snook. Since the book was published first in England, there are some new words—liliks or hills for tiny pins, tacking for thread, and zip fasteners. Sewing basics are covered almost too thoroughly for an experienced sewer, with descriptions of various kinds of seams. But the directions for making and sizing tiny coats, kimono, aprons, play suits, crawlers, dresses, sleeping bags, pajamas, bunnings, snow jackets and bonnets are very clear and very simple.

Kidnaper Pair Taken in Texarkana

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — A man and woman charged with kidnaping a Canadian millionaire were arrested here Wednesday night, police said.

Authorities said Jacques Mesrine, 32, and Jeanne Schneider, 29, both of Paris, France, were taken into custody after a search which spread over much of the South.

The two are charged in Montreal, Quebec, with kidnaping George Deslauriers, 55, a crippled millionaire wholesale vegetable dealer.

The two, who had been employed as servants in Deslauriers' home, have been identified by the victim as members of the kidnap team, Montreal authorities said.

Deslauriers was kidnaped June 20 and held in his apartment for $200,000 ransom. However, he escaped and notified police.

Michael DuPont, 24, was arrested in Montreal earlier in connection with the incident and ordered held for trial on charges of kidnaping, robbery with violence and car theft.

The search for Mesrine and the Schneider woman had been centered around Memphis, after they sent a telegram from there. Officers said the two wired a car rental agency in Detroit, asking that their automobile lease be extended.

The rental agency notified Detroit police, Canadian authorities and state police in Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi but the pair never returned to the Memphis telephone office for an answer to the wire.

City Water Group to See Congressman

Four delegates from the City Board of Directors are scheduled to meet with Congressman Hammerschmidt next Monday at 1:30 p.m. to discuss the urgency of the water situation here both private and industrial.

The water level is still low and Hope citizens are asked to be careful. Plants and flowers may still be watered but lawn watering is prohibited by city ordinance.

Garland Medders, city manager, says that construction workers and sprinkler trucks are being sent to Oakhaven to get water now instead of going to the Fire Station. Oakhaven still has enough water to supply these trucks.

Red Spaceship Behind Moon; Trackers Lose Contact, Then Recover Famed Doctor Reflects on Space Age

JODRELL BANK, England (AP) — The Soviet Luna 15 probe rocketed into orbit around the moon today, Jodrell Bank astronomers said they expected an attempt to land the unmanned craft on the moon by Friday morning.

Observatory director Sir Bernard Lovell said Luna 15 was in an elliptical orbit almost exactly two hours long and 600 to 1,200 miles above the moon.

He added after checking his big radio telescope, the West's main listening post for Luna 15 since it was launched Sunday, that it was sending back "heaps" of data.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said in Moscow that Luna 15 had become an artificial satellite of the moon, a statement interpreted in the Russian capital as possibly meaning no landing attempt would be made. Sir Bernard said he did not believe this.

"It simply doesn't make sense to create another lunar satellite at this stage of the Soviet program," Lovell declared.

"In my opinion, this is not the end of the exercise but probably the beginning," he added. "I think it will stay in orbit probably for the rest of the day and then an attempt will be made to land the whole spacecraft, or part of it, and collect some rock."

Sir Bernard conceded that he was speculating as to the purpose of Luna 15, although similar predictions had been made by unofficial Moscow sources that the Russians would try to steal some of the thunder of the American manned Apollo 11 flight and bring back lunar samples first.

He said it was likely that the Russians, with a limited amount of time before the moon set today and they lost radio control of the craft, would not try to land immediately.

"I think that tomorrow morning we may find it either on the moon or an attempt being made to put it down," he said.

MOSCOW (AP) — The unmanned Soviet spaceship Luna 15 today "became another in the series of Soviet lunar satellites," Tass reported.

The wording of the announcement by the official Soviet news agency strongly implied that Luna 15 would stay in lunar orbit and not attempt to return moon, soil to the earth, but the possibility of such a feat was not excluded.

The Tass announcement, read on Moscow Radio's regular afternoon newscast, was the first word here on the progress of the unmanned spaceship.

There is an odd pathos about people who have a compulsion to tell you a funny story every time they meet you. There is a forced, desperate quality about their search for laughter, a neurotic need to find the world everlastingly amusing. Most of us aren't that way. There are days when we'd rather cry like hell than laugh like hell—and we don't want to be coaxed out of our mood by an amateur cheer spreader.

Europe Gives Big Play in Its Press

LONDON (AP) — Europe is moonstruck by the Apollo 11 mission.

Newspapers throughout the continent filled their pages with pictures of the Saturn 5 rocket blasting off to forge earth's first link with its natural satellite, and headline writers taxed their imaginations for words to hail the feat.

"The greatest adventure in the history of humanity has started," declared the French newspaper Le Figaro, which devoted four pages to reports from Cape Kennedy and diagrams of the mission.

The tabloid Paris-Jour proclaimed, "The whole world tells them 'Bravo.'"

The Communist daily L'Humanite led with a launch picture and devoted its entire back page to an enthusiastic moon report, describing the countdown and launch, the astronauts' wives and families and backgrounding lunar activities.

Britain's five-million circulation Daily Mirror used two-inch high type to herald the launch. "Real cool out there in space—the three quiet Americans cut the small talk as they set out on their greatest moon adventure," it declared.

Most British newspapers stressed the relaxed attitude of the spacemen in their radio contact with mission control.

"The quiet moonmen bang on target," said the Sun.

The Communist Morning Star refused to give the story first prominence but conceded: "The challenge of Yuri Gagarin's immortal pioneer orbit and the shame of the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba was being exchanged in the rocket's fire."

There was some sniping. Daily Mirror columnist John Pilger wrote from Cape Kennedy, "The people who gave us Vietnam are giving us the moon."

Huge front-page headlines marked the adventure in major Yugoslav newspapers, which devoted three to six pages to Apollo. One newspaper issued a special edition.

In Rome, both the pro-government Il Messaggero and the Communist party organ l'Unita hailed the moon shot and dedicated special sections to the mission.

Strong Glass May Pick Up Apollo 11

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Amateur astronomers might be able to see the Apollo 11 spacecraft tonight if their telescopes are strong enough to pick out the tiny craft against the black background of deep space.

Manned Spacecraft Center officials offered the following celestial coordinates—declination and right ascension—where the spacecraft is expected to be located. All times are Eastern Daylight.

10:32 p.m., declination 4,50N, ascension 170,88E; 11:30 p.m., 4,39N-171,06E; 12:32 a.m., 4,29N-171,24E; 1:32 a.m., 4,18N-171,41E; 2:32 a.m., 4,08N-171,58E; 3:32 a.m., 3,98N-171,74E; 4:32 a.m., 3,89N-171,89E; 5:32 a.m., 3,80N-172,04 E.

The moon will not be visible in certain parts of the country during the Apollo 11 flight, officials said, because a launch time had to be selected which will place the astronauts at their landing site with the sun at the correct angle.

While on the moon, whose day is approximately 14 earth days long, the astronauts will be in an area close to the lunar dusk. The sun's angle is expected to be about 15 degrees above the horizon.

3 Cool Men Watch Their Earth Shrink

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Three cool Americans—principals in a drama the world is watching—sped toward a rendezvous with the moon and with history today as they watched their home planet shrink in view behind them.

The calm, matter-of-fact conversation from Apollo 11 to earth carried scant hint that in three days two of the astronauts would attempt to carry their nation's flag and man's aspirations to the surface of the moon.

Apollo 11 commander Neil A. Armstrong and his Air Force crewmates, Col. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Lt. Col. Michael Collins, rode their command module, linked nose-to-nose with the moon lander, toward the first attempt to land men on the moon.

The three astronauts showed little of the excitement of the estimated one million who jammed Cape Kennedy, Fla., for the blast off. Millions more saw it on television.

The crew's radio talk was sparse, and businesslike.

So accurately was Apollo 11 aimed at the moon that mission controllers decided to cancel plans for a midcourse correction Wednesday, but planned a small rocket burn today to tune up the flight path.

In a near-flawless performance, the spacecraft Wednesday developed only two trouble spots, both of which mission controllers said posed no threat to the mission.

The controllers said a flow indicator in an oxygen vent used to force waste water into space was giving a reading thought to be too low. Controllers said they had devised a test for today to determine if the sensor was at fault. They said alternate systems were available.

Collins also reported some difficulty in making star sightings. Controllers attributed this to the attitude of the spacecraft in relation to the stars used in the sighting. They said slight changes in attitude caused the stars to "move" more than Collins expected when he was using the on-board navigation equipment.

Summary Astronauts

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Highlights of Apollo 11's first and second days in space, all times Eastern Daylight:

The day ahead: The crew is awakened from a nine-hour sleep at 8:02 a.m. They have a breakfast of fruit cocktail, sausage patties, toast, bread cubes, cocoa and grapefruit drink.

The only major activity of the day—a midcourse correction, performed with the small rocket thrusters, at 12:22 p.m.

At 12:40 p.m., the crew starts the spacecraft spinning slowly to equalize the heating of the sun on all sides of the spacecraft.

Lunch, at 1:30 p.m., will be frankfurters, applesauce, chocolate pudding and orange-grapefruit drink.

A complex presleep checklist—normal housekeeping chores for space travelers—starts at 8:30 p.m., but takes only a short time.

For dinner, at 9 p.m., the crew has spaghetti, pork and scalloped potatoes and beef sandwiches.

Their second day in space ends at 10:32 p.m., when the astronauts start a 10-hour rest period.

The day past: Perfect weather greeted the spacemen when they were awakened at 4:15 a.m.

After a traditional breakfast of steak, eggs, juice and coffee, the astronauts donned their space suits.

At 6:52 a.m., they entered the spacecraft atop the 36-story Saturn 5 rocket.

Less than a second later than planned, at 9:32 a.m., the rocket hurled Apollo 11 into earth orbit, the first plateau of the flight to the moon.

The Saturn third stage was reignited 2½ hours later, burning the spacemen toward the moon.

During the early afternoon, the astronauts separated their command module from the spent rocket, turned around and poked the docking device into the collar of the moon lander. Ten minutes later, the linked spacecraft were ejected from the rocket hull.

A signal from the ground sent the spent rocket into a solar orbit.

Mission controllers later decided the spacecraft's flight was so accurate there was no need for the first planned midcourse correction. The scheduled small rocket thruster burn was canceled and Armstrong instead used the time to beam a television portrait of earth.

The crew started their rest period and doctors monitoring their heart beat said they were all asleep by 11:32 p.m., 14 hours after launch.

1,743 Objects Are Now in Orbit

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The U.S. Aerospace Defense Command has added a new number to its books for the moonbound Apollo 11—1,039.

The agency, which catalogues manmade objects in space, says there are now 1,743 such objects in the wild blue yonder. The other 2,296 have returned to earth or disintegrated in space.

The July meeting of the Projects Area Committee has been postponed until July 24 at 4 p.m. in the Douglas Building.
